Duke University Press is pleased to announce that over thirty years of back content for the Journal of Health Politics, Policy and Law is now available online for the first time on HighWire at jhjpl.dukejournals.org. Current subscribers can access the content of more than 190 issues—from the very first issue of the journal, originally published in 1976, to the current issue—for free as part of their paid subscription. Subscribers who have already activated their online access have immediate access to the newly posted back content; subscribers who have not yet activated their online access can find instructions to do so at www.dukeupress.edu/journals/instructions.shtml.

A leading journal in its field, and the primary source of communication across the many disciplines it serves, the Journal of Health Politics, Policy and Law focuses on the initiation, formulation, and implementation of health policy and analyzes the relations between government and health—past, present, and future. The journal also maintains a News and Notes page that tracks the latest personal news; job listings; fellowships and internships; education, training, and professional opportunities; conferences and meetings; calls for papers; grants awarded; grants available; organization news; and publications in the fields of health politics, policy, and law.
