

DUKE UNIVERSITY PRESS Journals

Does your institution subscribe?

To: Library Acquisitions/Serials
From: _____
_____
_____

I recommend that this library or institution subscribe to _____,
a journal published by Duke University Press.

Our library would benefit from the purchase of this journal because

_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____

To learn more about the journal and to view pricing information, please visit www.dukeupress.edu/journals.

_____
Signed

_____
Date

www.dukeupress.edu/library

Duke University Press is committed to partnering with libraries in order to spread and facilitate the use of academic literature. Duke University Press has taken initiatives to build this partnership, which include

- a Library Resource Center Web page
(www.dukeupress.edu/library)
- collaboration with university libraries including Duke, Stanford, Cornell, and Johns Hopkins
- the e-Duke Scholarly Collection, an online package of Duke journals priced according to a tiered-discounting model
- participation in archiving initiatives
- COUNTER 2-compliant usage statistics for Duke journals
- establishment as a ROMEo “green” publisher
- a presence at major library conferences
- a simple, library-friendly set of terms and conditions for Web site use

If you have any questions, please contact Kimberly Steinle, Library Relations Manager, at libraryrelations@dukeupress.edu.

