Neuro-Oncology's* ISI Impact Factor continues to climb

Duke University Press is pleased to report the continued success of its SPARC endorsed journal Neuro-Oncology. Recently released by Thomson's ISI Web of Knowledge, the 2004 Journal Citation Report assigns Neuro-Oncology an ISI Impact Factor of 3.907.

The new, improved rating further solidifies Neuro-Oncology's position as the foremost publication in the specific field of neuro-oncology and signals its ever-increasing significance to the field, as evidenced by the steady increase of the rating over the three years that Duke University Press has published the journal; ISI ratings were 2.717 and 3.365 in 2002 and 2003, respectively. The improved 2004 ranking places Neuro-Oncology 15th among 140 ranked clinical neurology journals and 32nd among 121 ranked oncology journals. In comparison, Kluwer's Journal of Neuro-Oncology earned an ISI Impact Factor of 1.968 for 2004 (54th in clinical neurology, 71st in oncology).

Neuro-Oncology is the official journal of the Society for Neuro-Oncology, the Japan Society for Neuro-Oncology, the European Association for Neuro-Oncology, and the World Federation of Neuro-Oncology Societies, providing high-quality and rapid publication of information in all areas of neuro-oncology. A truly international publication with an international editorial board of recognized experts, it encourages participation from a wide array of subspecialties and geographic locations. The journal contains peer-reviewed articles and reviews, symposia on selected topics, published abstracts of annual meetings, and society news and announcements.
