Duke University Press announces 2010 Euclid Prime pricing

Duke University Press is pleased to announce that pricing for the 2010 Euclid Prime collection is now available. The number of titles in the collection has increased from 23 in 2009 to 30 in 2010. Hosted on the Project Euclid platform, the collection now includes these additional high-quality titles:

Hokkaido Mathematical Journal
Journal of Commutative Algebra
Journal of Integral Equations and Applications
Kyoto Journal of Mathematics
Nibonkai Mathematical Journal
Rocky Mountain Journal of Mathematics
Toboku Journal of Mathematics
Tsukuba Journal of Mathematics

To provide flexibility for libraries, we are offering renewing subscribers the option to purchase 2010 content for titles included in the 2009 collection at a flat rate.

“We recognize that the downturn in the economy has impacted libraries significantly,” says Mira Waller, manager of Project Euclid. “We want to provide libraries with the opportunity to choose the options that fit their budgets while making sure that Project Euclid remains a viable and growing online community for independent and society publishers in mathematics.”

Current content for the Japan Journal of Industrial and Applied Mathematics (now with Springer) will no longer be part of Euclid Prime; however, archival content from 2006 to 2009 will remain part of the collection.
