Citation Style Examples

Notes and Bibliography Style
The following examples illustrate citations using the notes and bibliography system. Examples of notes are followed by shortened versions of citations to the same source, then the bibliography entry. For more details and many more examples, see chapter 14 of The Chicago Manual of Style.

BOOK

One author

Two or more authors

Editor, translator, or compiler instead of author

Chapter or other part of a book

Chapter of an edited volume originally published elsewhere (as in primary sources)

Preface, foreword, introduction, or similar part of a book

2. Rieger, introduction, xxxiii.

Book published electronically

If a book is available in more than one format, cite the version you consulted. For books consulted online, list a URL; include an access date. If no fixed page numbers are available, you can include a section title or a chapter or other number.

3. Austen, Pride and Prejudice.

JOURNAL ARTICLE

Article in a print journal

In a note, list the specific page numbers consulted, if any. In the bibliography, list the page range for the whole article.

Article in an online journal

Include a DOI (Digital Object Identifier) if the journal lists one. A DOI is a permanent ID that, when appended to http://dx.doi.org/ in the address bar of an Internet browser, will lead to the source. If no DOI is available, list a URL. Include an access date.

ARTICLE IN A NEWSPAPER OR POPULAR MAGAZINE

Newspaper and magazine articles may be cited in running text (“As Sheryl Stolberg and Robert Pear noted in a New York Times article on February 27, 2010, . . .”) instead of in a note, and they are commonly omitted from a bibliography. The following examples show the more formal versions of the citations. If you consulted the article online, include a URL; include an access date. If no author is identified, begin the citation with the article title.

BOOK REVIEW

THESIS OR DISSERTATION

2. Choi, “Contesting Imaginaires.”

PAPER PRESENTED AT A MEETING OR CONFERENCE

WEBSITE
A citation to website content can often be limited to a mention in the text or in a note (“As of July 19, 2008, the McDonald’s Corporation listed on its website . . .”). If a more formal citation is desired, it may be styled as in the examples below. Because such content is subject to change, include an access date or, if available, a date that the site was last modified.

3. “Google Privacy Policy.”

BLOG ENTRY OR COMMENT
Blog entries or comments may be cited in running text (“In a comment posted to The Becker-Posner Blog on February 23, 2010, . . .”) instead of in a note, and they are commonly omitted from a bibliography. The following examples show the more formal versions of the citations. There is no need to add pseud. after an apparently fictitious or informal name. (If an access date is required, add it before the URL; see examples elsewhere in this guide.)

E-MAIL OR TEXT MESSAGE
E-mail and text messages may be cited in running text (“In a text message to the author on March 1, 2010, John Doe revealed . . .”) instead of in a note, and they are rarely listed in a bibliography. The following example shows the more formal version of a note.

ITEM IN A COMMERCIAL DATABASE
For items retrieved from a commercial database, add the name of the database and an accession number following the facts of publication. In this example, the dissertation cited above is shown as it would be cited if it were retrieved from ProQuest’s database for dissertations and theses.

Author-Date Style

The following examples illustrate citations using the author-date system. Each example of a reference list entry is accompanied by an example of a corresponding parenthetical citation in the text. For more details and many more examples, see chapter 15 of The Chicago Manual of Style.

One author

(Pollan 2006, 99–100)

Two or more authors

(Ward and Burns 2007, 52)

For four or more authors, list all of the authors in the reference list; in the text, list only the first author, followed by et al. (“and others”):

(Barnes et al. 2010)

Editor, translator, or compiler instead of author

(Lattimore 1951, 91–92)

Editor, translator, or compiler in addition to author

(García Márquez 1988, 242–55)

Chapter or other part of a book

(Kelly 2010, 77)

Chapter of an edited volume originally published elsewhere (as in primary sources)

(Cicero 1986, 35)

Preface, foreword, introduction, or similar part of a book

(Rieger 1982, xx–xxi)

Book published electronically

If a book is available in more than one format, cite the version you consulted. For books consulted online, list a URL; include an access date only if one is required by your publisher or discipline. If no fixed page numbers are available, you can include a section title or a chapter or other number.

(Austen 2007)

(Journal Article)

Article in a print journal

In the text, list the specific page numbers consulted, if any. In the reference list entry, list the page range for the whole article.

(Weinstein 2009, 440)

Article in an online journal

Include a DOI (Digital Object Identifier) if the journal lists one. A DOI is a permanent ID that, when appended to http://dx.doi.org/ in the address bar of an Internet browser, will lead to the source. If no DOI is available, list a URL. Include an access date.

(Kossinets and Watts 2009, 411)
ARTICLE IN A NEWSPAPER OR POPULAR MAGAZINE

Newspaper and magazine articles may be cited in running text ("As Sheryl Stolberg and Robert Pear noted in a New York Times article on February 27, 2010, . . . "), and they are commonly omitted from a reference list. The following examples show the more formal versions of the citations. If you consulted the article online, include a URL; include an access date. If no author is identified, begin the citation with the article title.

(Stolberg and Pear 2010)

BOOK REVIEW

(Kamp 2006)

THESIS OR DISSERTATION

(Choi 2008)

PAPER PRESENTED AT A MEETING OR CONFERENCE

(Adelman 2009)

WEBSITE

A citation to website content can often be limited to a mention in the text ("As of July 19, 2008, the McDonald’s Corporation listed on its website . . . "). If a more formal citation is desired, it may be styled as in the examples below. Because such content is subject to change, include an access date or, if available, a date that the site was last modified. In the absence of a date of publication, use the access date or last-modified date as the basis of the citation.

(Posner 2010)

BLOG ENTRY OR COMMENT

Blog entries or comments may be cited in running text ("In a comment posted to The Becker-Posner Blog on February 23, 2010, . . . "), and they are commonly omitted from a reference list. If a reference list entry is needed, cite the blog post there but mention comments in the text only. (If an access date is required, add it before the URL; see examples elsewhere in this guide.)

(Posner 2010)

E-MAIL OR TEXT MESSAGE

E-mail and text messages may be cited in running text ("In a text message to the author on March 1, 2010, John Doe revealed . . . "), and they are rarely listed in a reference list. In parenthetical citations, the term personal communication (or pers. comm.) can be used.

(John Doe, e-mail message to author, February 28, 2010)

or

(John Doe, pers. comm.)

ITEM IN A COMERCIAL DATABASE

For items retrieved from a commercial database, add the name of the database and an accession number following the facts of publication. In this example, the dissertation cited above is shown as it would be cited if it were retrieved from ProQuest’s database for dissertations and theses.
